Owing to the beautiful color of White Bronze, and the exquisite finish given to its surface by the "Sand Blast," many very naturally suppose that some artificial coloring has been given to our work; but such is not the case. Neither are they galvanized or electro-plated, but are of the same pure, solid material all through.

We find by careful examination, that the Poor Farm has paid its running expenses, and support of inmates, with a balance of $36 47 in the hands of the Superintendent. There has been paid to the Town Treasurer,

On exchange of oxen, $20 00

Sale of sheep, 63 00

The oxen have earned $68.50 on the roads, while the cost of hay and grain paid for oxen, while at work on roads (see Contingent Acct.), was $16.04. We have purchased three cows and exchanged the horse at an expense of $166.00. We thought it economy to buy mowing machine at an expense of $47.00, rather than pay annually thirty to forty dollars for mowing the grass.

The management of Mr. James Darby, as well as that of his wife, has been good, and the care of the inmates kind and considerate.

No. on farm, 7. Average during the year, 7.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. WATERMAN, Finance Committee.

GORHAM, FEB. 18, 1886.

Having examined the books and accounts of the town for the year ending February 18, 1886, I find the payments properly vouched, and for further details would refer to the fore-going reports of your Selectmen, Treasurer and Finance Committee.

GORHAM, FEB. 18, 1886.

JOHN H. CARD, Auditor.

*This does not include the costs in the Aldrich Suit, still in Court, which will probably amount to a considerable sum by the time a final decision of the case is reached,

Report OF THE Superintending School Committee.

To the Citizens of Gorham :

As required by law, your Superintending School Committee submit the following annual report of the condition, progress and need of the public schools of Gorham, for the year ending Mar., 1, 1886.

While statistics for the past year have shown a constant and very satisfactory improvement in the teachers employed, as to literary and professional qualifications, yet at the same time they show conditions in permanency of tenure which demand more radical and speedy amendment than can be secured by any force now operating.

As 38 different teachers were required to teach eighteen schools in 1885, there must have resulted a waste of time and force by these changes and the consequent different modes of instruction, which cannot be measured numerically, but it is none the less to be deprecated and guarded against.

SCHOOL HOUSES.

Although many of our school houses are in good repair outside, and present a fair semblance of comfort, yet to a great extent in the interior, they are models of inconvenience and discomfort.

There are others that should be supplanted as soon as possible, by comely and commodious houses, particularly in districts Nos. 2, 11, 12, 14, and 16. The condition of our school houses is a very important factor ; school houses should be of such a character as to be themselves a source of pride to, and a silent but potent teacher of pupils and people.

Too many of our school houses, which is attributable to our present district system, are unsightly, unattractive, and repulsive even.

They are the nurseries of disregard and dislike for school work, of rudeness and indecency of thought and act in the pupils housed in them.

ATTENDANCE.

To secure larger and more regular attendance upon the schools, in order to reduce illiteracy to its lowest possible terms, our town has long since adopted truaut laws which in justice to its scholars, ought to be enforced. Out of eight hundred and ninety-three (893) scholars in town in 1885, only fifty per-cent were regular attendants at our schools.

TEXT BOOKS.

There is at the present time nearly a uniformity af text books in our schools, a condition which has not but for a short time existed.

FREE HIGH SCHOOLS.

The Free High Schools in our town are each succeeding year growing more and more into public favor. Their experimental stage of being is passed and they have stood the crucible test of public discussion, and the suffocating influence of the sham reformation of eighteen hundred and seventy-nine (1879), from that detrimental attack they have fully recovered, and are in a healthy and vigorous growth towards larger effectiveness than ever before.

While our schools prove an encouraging progress in efficiency, do they indicate progress to such an extent, and along such lines, as to be fully satisfactory? With all candor, is not the present district system of management, such that they cannot be pushed forward to a satisfactory state of excellence without a change of system? Granting as all will, there is need of further improvement, in order for our schools to reach that standard of dignity which they ought to attain.

We should, as soon as public opinion is ripe, adopt the means to the end, and promote the best interests of this important factor of our public institutions.

F.

Very Respectfully,

G. P. PLAISTED,	} Superintending
